CENTRE FOR COMMUNITY BASED RESEARCH

73 King Street West, Suite 300
Kitchener, Ontario N2G 1A7
Phone: (519) 741-1318 Fax: (519) 741-8262
general@communitybasedresearch.ca
www.communitybasedresearch.ca

Position Available

Senior Researcher

Centre for Community Based Research (CCBR)
www.communitybasedersearch.ca

The Centre for Community Based Research (CCBR) is seeking a Senior Researcher who will lead community based research projects with a participatory and action oriented approach. The Senior Researcher will have solid research credentials in the academic, government, or NGO sector and a demonstrated strong commitment to community based research including knowledge mobilization. Content expertise on women's issues is an asset.

This is a full time contract position based in Kitchener-Waterloo for one year with benefits and potential for renewal. For more information about the Centre for Community Based Research, view the website at www.communitybasedresearch.ca.

Requirements

- Ph.D. or Masters degree in a relevant field or equivalent experience and training
- Writing and publishing record
- Strong conceptual / theoretical background
- University level training in research methods
- Several years involvement in human services
- Experienced in qualitative and/or quantitative research and evaluation
- Experienced in leading research teams to successfully accomplish research projects

To Apply

Qualified candidates are encouraged to forward resume and cover letter by January 21, 2011 via e-mail to mariep@communitybasedresearch.ca. You may also mail or fax applications to Marie-Pascale Desjardins, Business Manager, Centre for Community Based Research (Fax: 519-741-8262, 73 King Street West, Suite 300, Kitchener, ON N2G 1A7).

The Centre for Community Based Research

The Centre for Community Based Research (CCBR) is an independent, non-profit organization with 28 years experience in community research, program evaluation, needs assessment and community planning. The current CCBR staff is a multidisciplinary team including members with backgrounds in sociology, community psychology, social work, immigration, urban and regional planning, economics, international development and health sciences. Some members of our network have extensive firsthand experience as consumers of human services.

CCBR remains a unique option for Canadian groups interested in undertaking community research. It offers the opportunity to work with a diverse team of consultants who have academic credibility, well-developed networks and vast experience in both methodology and content areas. As an independent non-profit organization governed by a cross-sector, volunteer board, CCBR is deliberately set up to be responsive and accountable to the organizations that contract it to do research.